

Duo Project's guide booklet 'Love and Parenthood in an Intercultural Family' (36 pages) is intended for all intercultural families that are planning to have a child, expecting a baby or that already have small children. Professionals who work with intercultural couples can also make use of the booklet.

The booklet contains information about an intercultural couple's relationship, parenthood, intercultural child's identity and bilingualism. It:

- gives information about the different stages of a relationship;
- describes life between cultures;
- gives information about the effects a child's birth and parenthood have on the parents' life and relationship;
- provides tips on how to support an intercultural child's identity and bilingualism
